With my personal linkedin brand, I aim for a tone of authenticity, growth, and positivity in my posts

I just started my garden in the low desert, and I've been reflecting on how different the environment is for my plants, similarly to how moving here has been such a drastic shift for me as well. Searching for a job now that I've graduated has been a much larger challenge than I initially anticipated. Sometimes it feels impossible to find a place where I can thrive in this competitive job market. However, I know as long as I keep attempting to grow, I will learn how to thrive, and one day, bear fruit.
